INFORMATION FOR VOTERS AT LOCAL GOVERNMENT ELECTIONS

Voting by corporate bodies

A corporate body which owns or occupies any land in a municipal area is entitled to nominate one person in any municipal area to vote on its behalf at an election in that municipal area.

Nominations to vote must be done by completing this approved form, signed by the nominated person, and lodged with the general manager.

The general manager may accept the nomination, or reject the nomination if satisfied that the corporate body is not the owner or occupier of land.

The general manager may reject the nomination if satisfied that the nominated person -

- is not over the age of 18; or
- is serving a term of imprisonment; or
- is subject to an initial order or a continuing care order under the Mental Health Act 1996 or an order under the Guardianship and Administration Act 1995.

If a nomination in an approved form has not been made, the corporate body is not entitled to vote at an election held in the relevant municipal area.

A nomination has effect until a fresh nomination is made by the corporate body, or it appears to the general manager that -

- there has been a change in the ownership or occupation of the land in respect of which the entitlement to vote arises; or
- the nominated person is no longer entitled to be nominated; or
- the nomination has been revoked.

A corporate body may nominate only one person to vote on its behalf at an election in a municipal area regardless of whether it owns or occupies land in several locations in that municipal area.

Maximum number of votes

An elector, in an election in respect of one municipal area, has no more than 2 votes, of which -

- only one vote is in his or her own right; and
- only one vote is on behalf of a corporate body.

What happens when this enrolment form is lodged

Provided the eligibility requirements are met, the name of the nominated person will be placed on the electoral roll for the relevant municipal area.

At the appropriate time, a postal vote ballot paper will be sent to the nominated person.

Will all information appear on the electoral roll?

No. Only the name and address of the nominated person will appear on the electoral roll.

Electoral rolls are made available for public inspection and may be provided to –

- the Tasmanian Electoral Commission and contractors for the purpose of conducting council elections; and
- candidates in accordance with the Local Government Act 1993.

Where can I get more information?

You can get more information from your local Council, or the Tasmanian Electoral Commission.
